CONSENT ORDER

Ryan Roussel, PT ("Mr. Roussel" or "Respondent"), who was licensed as a physical therapist in 2011, was the subject of a complaint filed with the Louisiana Physical Therapy Board ("Board") on February 10, 2014 by a fellow professional. Mr. Roussel subsequently self-reported to the Board the same conduct which was the subject matter of the complaint.

Mr. Roussel attended an Informal Conference at the Board office on February 20, 2014, at which time he admitted to Board Member, Kristina Lounsberry, PT and George M. Papale, Board legal counsel, that he had intimate relations with a 20-year-old female physical therapy patient. Mr. Roussel acknowledged that the relationship began when the patient shared personal information about herself, about which he showed interest and for which he provided advice to the patient. Mr. Roussel admitted that the subject matter of these discussions was outside the scope of physical therapy practice.

Thereafter, he and the physical therapy patient exchanged cell phone numbers, carried on conversations and exchanged text messages unrelated to physical therapy services and through these communications an intimate relationship developed. The relationship with the patient continued for at least a month until it was discovered by Respondent's wife, who confronted Respondent and shared the information with Respondent's employer. Respondent admitted that he discharged the female patient from physical therapy services several days after he was confronted about the relationship. Respondent asserted that the termination of physical therapy services was by mutual agreement.

Mr. Roussel has asserted that no intimate contact with the patient occurred during physical therapy treatment or at the clinic and that such conduct has not occurred with any other patient.

At the Informal Conference, Mr. Roussel acknowledged culpability for his actions and expressed remorse. Respondent has cooperated with the Investigative Committee's requests by submitting to a psychological evaluation, drug testing and a criminal background check prior to entering into this Consent Order. In the judgment of the Investigative Committee, the results of these additional inquiries did not disclose information which indicated that Mr. Roussel's return to physical therapy practice, as conditioned by the terms of this Consent Order, would pose a danger to the public.
FACTUAL BASIS FOR CONSENT ORDER

The information contained in the aforementioned complaint, self-reported by the Respondent and acknowledged by the Respondent at the Informal Conference and during the psychological evaluation involves a sexual relationship between a physical therapist and his female physical therapy patient which occurred during the physical therapist/patient relationship.

Predicated upon the information outlined above, the Committee has determined that reasonable cause exists for recommending that a formal Administrative Complaint be filed against Ryan Roussel, PT charging him with the following violations the Physical Therapy Practice Act and Board Rules.
